WINTER LECTURE SERIES 2018 - 19

Speaking for Scotland's Buildings

All on Thursdays: Coffee / tea at 7pm: Lectures start at 7:30pm.
Admission: £5 / students £2 / season ticket for all 5 lectures: £20.
Venue: THE RENFIELD CENTRE, 260 Bath Street, Glasgow

October 18th : THE BUILDINGS OF PAISLEY, 1860—1914

John Hume, distinguished historian of industrial archaeology and architecture, examines the architecture of the thread industry's heyday.

November 29th : GLASGOW CITY CHAMBERS

Dr. Nina Baker, construction historian and former city councillor, introduces us to the largely unknown history of Glasgow's City Chambers' construction and the inner workings of the building (and a wee bit of Victorian city politicking).

January 17th : TURNING A NEGATIVE INTO A POSITIVE

Simon Green, AHSS President, puts the case for the Buildings at Risk Register—of which he is manager—being a positive tool in the Regeneration of our Historic Environment.

February 21st : MACKINTOSH FURNITURE

Roger Billcliffe, the leading authority on the subject, illustrates how furniture was an integral part of many of Mackintosh's architectural commissions, making him a master of gesamtkunstwerk.

March 21st : GLASGOW THEATRE – SEE AND BE SEEN

Graeme Smith, Scottish theatre historian, guides us round the past and present theatre styles and sites of the city.
